3 You can login with your UNCG credentials.

The screenshot shows the 'InfoReady Review' website interface. At the top, there is a dark blue header with the UNCG logo on the left, the text 'InfoReady Review' in the center, and a 'Log In' link on the right. Below the header is a yellow navigation bar with 'ALL UNCG OPPORTUNITIES' and 'CALENDAR' links. The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column contains two login sections: 'Login for University of North Carolina at Greensboro Users' and 'Login for Other Users'. The 'Login for University of North Carolina at Greensboro Users' section includes a blue button labeled 'University of North Carolina at Greensboro Login' which is circled in yellow. The 'Login for Other Users' section contains input fields for 'Email Address' (with 'oretech@uncg.edu' entered) and 'Password' (with asterisks), and a 'Forgot your password?' link. The right column contains a 'Questions?' section with the contact email 'oretech@uncg.edu'.

As the higher education landscape changes, UNC Greensboro aims to adjust through transformative and innovative initiatives. The Chancellor's Initiative for Transformative Research provides seed funding for promising projects that will lead to strong community impacts while attracting significant external funding. The goal of CITR is to engage researchers to launch projects that will strengthen the competitive position of UNC Greensboro in North Carolina, the United States, and around the World. Connection of projects to emerging national initiatives is critical to the funding of this work.

The proposed projects are expected to develop partnerships within and external to UNCG that establish cross-disciplinary and/or interdisciplinary projects and focus on advancing knowledge and building innovation, while exposing students to new experiences in these fields. It is anticipated that at least one proposal will be funded in each of the following categories:

- Category I: Address pressing societal challenges (for example, housing, K-16 education, food insecurities, energy, and other areas of interest).
- Category II: Revolutionize creative scholarship to bring awareness to a problem (for example, digitization, augmented/virtual reality, robotics, humanoids, 3D/4D Printing, and other areas of interest)
- Category III: Respond to critical and urgent health and wellness needs (for example, cancer, diabetes, heart disease, autism, dementia, mental health, and other areas of interest).
- Category IV: Advance critical technologies (for example, artificial intelligence, cybersecurity, biotechnology, energy, and other innovative areas)

If no proposals in each category are deemed exceptionally strong, no awards will be made. It is recommended that an applicant select a category based on the content of the proposal. If you recognize that some overlap between these categories exists, and therefore a given proposal may fit within more than one category. Individuals who desire assistance in selecting the appropriate category should contact Vice Chancellor Sherine Obare). Once decided, the applicant will select the proposal submission shell (competition link) that corresponds to the appropriate category.
